Civil War Breaks Out In Irish Capital

Free State Troops Start Offensive Against Irregulars With Armored Cars—O'Connor Wounded and Headquarters Besieged—Many Casualties.

Long threatened warfare between the Irish Republicans and the supporters of the Irish Free State, broke out at Dublin today. Advice filed in London and Dublin this afternoon, indicated that the Irish provisional government had successfully weathered the storm thus far.

Reinforcements of regulars were rushed to Dublin, and at the same time precautions were taken to prevent irregulars from making their way into the city.

From the number of men engaged and the violence of the action, the fighting had all appearances of civil war. Many were killed and wounded, but official casualty lists are not yet available.

The battle opened at dawn when Free State troops attacked the Four Courts Building, headquarters of the irregular faction of the Irish Republican army, and Fowler Hall, which the irregulars were using for a barracks. Fowler Hall was quickly captured. The Four Courts Building was wrecked and at last reports, irregulars were said to have barricaded themselves in the basement. Roderick O'Connor, commander of the Republican irregulars, was reported to have been wounded.

This was the gravest test of strength that the Irish provisional government has yet been called upon to face. While the British deny that any pressure was exerted, it is understood that the military move was hastened by Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill's recent declaration in the British house of commons that the headquarters of the irregular faction is "a nest of murder and outrage and must be cleaned out."

The use of British troops in Dublin was offered to the Irish Free State, but was declined.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Dublin, June 28.—A state of civil war existed here this morning with violent fighting raging between Irish Free State troops and the irregular faction of the Irish Republican army. Skirmishing, which had been in progress all night, gave way to a pitched battle at dawn when Free State troops attempted to storm and capture the Four Courts Building, the headquarters of the irregulars. Artillery, machine guns and armored cars were used in the fighting. Thousands of soldiers participated. Dublin and the suburbs were thrown into panic. Thousands of residents have fled.

At 9:30 o'clock, fighting was still in progress. The streets adjacent to the battleground were filled with ambulances and relief workers. In the fog of early morning, Free State troops moved from their barracks in armored cars and began an assault upon Fowler Hall, where Roderick ("Rory") O'Connor, commander of the irregulars, was supposed to be. This hall was filled with irregular troops. Immediately that whole section of the city was aflame.

It was the heaviest fighting that Dublin has known since the Easter uprising in 1916. Above the sharp crackle of continuous rifle and pistol firing could be heard the rumbling thunder of bursting bombs.

Shortly after the fighting grew intense, the Irish provisional government established a censorship of all dispatches, but allowed news to be sent out concerning the progress of the engagement.

By 6 o'clock, the Free State troops had surrounded the Four Courts Building and were pouring in a hot fire from all sides.

As the roar of battle grew, many residents mounted the roofs of buildings to get a view of the combatants. These bold spirits ran a risk, however, as spent bullets were flying in every direction. The streets were littered with debris of all descriptions.

Free State troops established a "danger zone" for the protection of residents of streets adjacent to the battle and all non-combatants were warned to withdraw.

One woman dropped dead from the shock of excitement. It was reported that the irregulars had seized a member of the Free State army, holding him as a hostage. He was believed to have been in the Four Courts Building during the attack. This was the center of the fighting.

The Irish provisional government is understood to have delivered an ultimatum to Commander O'Connor, of the rebels, just before midnight, giving him one hour to withdraw his troops from their headquarters and barracks.

Later the Free Staters, to show they were in earnest, drew up field guns in the streets about Fowler Hall and the Four Courts Building. A drizzle of rain started to fall and a wave of fog drifted over the city. Firing broke out near Fowler Hall, smashing some of the lights. The wet, murky weather gave a grimmer aspect to the situation.

The armored cars used by the Free Staters were armed with heavy Hotchkiss guns.

Three wounded men died in hospitals.

Doctors said they saw a number of dead men lying in the battle area. Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill, in the house of commons at London, had warned the Irish Free State on Monday that the headquarters of the irregular section of the Irish Republican army would have to be cleaned up.

The boys indulged in aquatic sports, swimming and diving. They also played ball and other forms of sports on the lawn. During the day the Chancel Choir sang several selections. Choice refreshments were enjoyed and prizes were awarded to the winners of the many contests participated in throughout the day.

SUPERVISED PLAY SOON AT CITY'S THREE PLAYGROUNDS

Season Opens July 1, With Three Instructors—Weyant to be at Hasbrouck Park, Miss Fannie Cahill at Canfield Park, and Miss O'Meara at Forsyth Park.

The playground committee of the board of public works, of which Selig Oppenheimer is chairman, has decided to open the season of supervised play at the city's three parks, Forsyth, Hasbrouck and Canfield Parks, on July 1. This season there will be three instructors to have charge of the work, one at each park.

At Hasbrouck Park, the work will be in charge of Randolph P. Weyant, a son of the Rev. P. C. Weyant, a former pastor of Trinity M. E. Church.

Miss Fannie A. Cahill, a daughter of the late Police Sergeant Cahill, will have charge of the work at Canfield Park.

At Forsyth Park the work will be in charge of Miss Anastasia O'Meara of this city.

The playground apparatus was installed at all three parks the latter part of May and has been used daily by the children of the city. There have been no instructors engaged, however, until after the schools closed, following the system adopted in previous years.

When the playgrounds were first opened several years ago the board of public works employed two instructors at each park, but this season it was decided that the work could be done efficiently for considerably less money.

Those interested in supervised play have met with the park committee from time to time, and after talking the matter over thoroughly it was decided that the work could be carried on this season with one instructor at each of the three parks.

COMMENCEMENT STARS WERE BOYS

Three at Top of Class for First Time at High School—Essays Delivered and Prizes Awarded—Seniors Dance Tonight.

The Class of 1922, Kingston High School, has passed into history. Tuesday evening before an attentive and large assemblage of parents and friends the graduates, the product of multiple years of scholastic work, numbering 107, received diplomas.

Marching to the music orchestrated by the school orchestra the class entered the auditorium, took its position upon the rostrum, whereupon Dr. Baragwanath pronounced the invocation.

The first speaker of the evening, Donald Whiston, entertained the subject, "The Interdependence of Capital and Labor." No question has more insistently occupied the minds of thoughtful Americans, or is more vital to the peace and the prosperity of our country, than the Capital and Labor question; nor is any question more difficult to judge fairly. However, it is plain to the unprejudiced observer that both Capital and Labor, through their wrongdoing, have been responsible for the troubles which have arisen between them. Donald Whiston declared that industrial turmoil has disturbed the peace of our country in the past; and just so long as Capital and Labor fail to recognize their mutual dependence and obligations, industrial troubles will continue. Mr. Whiston's speech was very convincingly delivered and was entirely worthy of the applause which it incidentally received.

An appreciation of James Whitcomb Riley was voiced by Florence Stone who said that never in the history of American literature has poetry received so generous an expression of public regard and affection during his life as did the Hoosier poet. His success she attributed to his understanding of his fellow men, his sympathy for them and his power to voice human feelings. For everyone he had a kind word or a smile and his poems are full of human kindness and interest in other people as found in his word of cheer for the "Discouraged Farmer." And no one has presented the child's viewpoint of life with such loving faithfulness as Riley. The sixth anniversary of Riley's death occurs on July 22 and it is to be hoped that on that day each one will give a thought to this American poet.

Miss Stone's address was too original to be classified as anything but very good.

"Soar Higher" was the title of Ethelwyne Scott Harrington's essay, which stressed the importance of doing well the "last" at hand in order to advance along the road that leads toward that coveted, but rather elusive objective, success. What, therefore, he asked, is success? but a command to attempt still higher things. One who rests in absolute contentment cannot possibly enjoy the fullness of life, for man is born to hopes and aspirations as naturally as sparks fly upward. How noble, he said, if each accepted as his or her watchword, that inspiring thought, "Onward, ever onward; front the noble fray; turn your faces sunward all the burning day."

Miss Harrington's poise, her force, her subject matter, all combined to successfully "put over" her address.

"The Value of Higher Education for the Business Man" was dwelt upon by Frederick Schroeder to the conclusion that one with such an education has a decided advantage and better prospects than the man without it. A college education, he contended, trains and molds the four prime requisites of a successful business man—industry, acuteness, intelligence and reliability. The young man who goes to college, he said, and who embraces the opportunities found there, has a much better chance to rise above the commonplace and achieve the real pleasures of living than the one who doesn't, the latter often being bound to a life of drudgery.

In part Schroeder's speech was the same as delivered by him at the Columbia Prize Speaking Preliminaries held at Poughkeepsie when he defeated the Poughkeepsie representative, Porter Shahan, and won third place in the contest. Mr. Schroeder's subject was perhaps one of the most applicable to the present graduating class, since he plainly showed that which will inevitably confront the seniors in future years.

An unusually delightful surprise had been premeditated for everyone when Miss Ethel Schwab entertained with John Alden Carpenter's "Poland" American. Miss Schwab's performance at the piano only bespoke once more her high peak of accomplishment; displayed once more her skill and finesse. Everyone was delighted.

Dorothy C. Kennedy drew attention to "The Power of Words," "the medium of communication for the thoughts, the feelings, the dreams and aspirations of all mankind," and she might be the vehicle of passion or imagination to move a multitude to emotion. She closed an extended exposition of the manner in which words have moved the destinies of people with the admonition: "By thy words thou shalt be judged and by thy words thou shalt be condemned."

Miss Kennedy's unusual topic, was indicative of the author's keen originality. Miss Kennedy conveyed the impression that she knew whereof she spoke by her forceful, calm, delivery.

"The American Dollar" drew the attention of Kenneth Hasbrouck and he said that money and trouble are almost synonymous. In answer to the numerous critics who say that the almighty dollar is king in the

STOP SHOOTING BEFORE FOURTH OR BE ARRESTED

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood stated today that the police department had received several complaints in regard to boys shooting off firecrackers and other noise-makers before the Fourth of July. This is a violation of the city ordinance, and while he disliked issuing orders for arrests, he would be compelled to instruct the members of the department to enforce it by making arrests.

Parents who would not care to have their children placed under arrest should see to it that they do not violate the ordinance by setting off firecrackers before the holiday.

Several of the complaints received have been from families who have sick ones who are annoyed and disturbed by the noise. In one case a woman is slowly dying and every effort is being made to keep the surroundings quiet.

KIWANIS TEAMS PLAY TOMORROW

At Kingston Fair Grounds for Boy Scout Fund—Albany to Send Plenty of Rooters—Joint Dinner Afterward.

In the role of umpire, Artie Rice will shout "Batter up" at the Kingston Fair Grounds diamond tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock and start a game in which the local Kiwanis club will endeavor to shut out the team representing the Albany Kiwanis Club. A small admission fee will be charged, all the money realized to be turned over to the fund to rejuvenate the Boy Scout movement in Ulster county.

Forty or fifty experienced rooters from the Albany Club will accompany their team so it behooves a lot of Kingston citizens to be present and match lung power with them. Following the game, at about 7 o'clock, the Kingston and Albany Kiwanis Clubs will dine together at the Y. M. C. A. There will be no regular meeting of Kingston Kiwanis tomorrow noon.

This is the third home team to play on the new diamond and it hopes to repel these invaders as have the Colonials and the high school boys. Just now, however, it draws the line at the Astors, the Coal Miners, the All-Nationals and "O'Malley." Albany is expected to produce a good team since a lot of its college men are enjoying summer vacations and are available to play.

The line-up arranged by Captain Boessneck of the Kingston team, is as follows: Safford, 1b. Mack, 2b. Bott, ss. Dittus, 3b. Behrens, cf. Messenger or Darrow, rf. Duolittle, lf. Boessneck, c. Davis, p. Burns and Marchant, utility men. Sam Stern will act as chief water boy. "Dinty" Quilly as official announcer and Hughie Jennings Safford will chew whatever grass may be available in the coaching box at first base.

ALDERMEN MET WITH B. OF P. W.

Common Council Committee Sought Information Regarding Street Work—Other Matters Taken Up At Monthly Session Tuesday Evening.

Alderman Cushman, Macholdt, Ryan and Joy met with the board of public works at the regular monthly session Tuesday evening, and called attention to street work throughout the city and Mayor Crane presided with all of the board present.

Alderman Cushman, the first of the common council committee to speak, stated that work on the streets was not being done as promptly as it should be done, and that the common council desired to know the reason why. Alderman Macholdt called attention to Summer street, Alderman Joy to the needs of the Sixth Ward, and Alderman Ryan to the requirements of the Thirteenth Ward.

The board assured the aldermen that street work would be done as promptly as possible. The board was allowed a certain appropriation and desired to expend it in a way to serve the best interests of the entire city.

Raymond Craft of the firm of E. S. Kraft and Son, Wall street grocers, complained of congestion of traffic on Fair and Wall streets and thought something should be done to relieve conditions. The board informed him they would do what they could to correct the conditions.

A representative of an asphalt plant desired to sell the city a plant in the near future at a cost of about $18,000. The board will consider the matter later.

The petition of the North Front street merchants to improve the lighting facilities on that street between Wall and Crown streets was referred to the lighting committee.

A petition from Hudson street residents to construct a sanitary sewer in that street was referred to the street committee and city engineer.

The Pine Hill Hotel Association wrote asking permission to install signs in the city. Secretary Winchell was instructed to write them asking where they desired to locate the signs.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer were given permission to use Forsyth Park for July 12, if rainy the next fair day. The Ladies Aid Society of the Holy Cross Church were given permission to hold a block party on Pine Grove avenue on August 8.

The request of Martin's Garage at 301 Broadway to install another gas pump was denied. The board also denied the request of the Kingston Auto Radiator Company at 375 Broadway to install a pump.

William Lawton wrote regarding bus terminal on Crown street which was referred to the common council.

Mrs. Fred Barth of 57 Tubbey street wrote regarding the construction of a sewer in that street, which was referred to the street committee and city engineer.

E. J. Birch wrote suggesting that the board buy or condemn land on both sides of the Flatbush avenue railroad crossing and construct a bridge over it for traffic. He also called attention to Farrelly street. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Residents of Clinton avenue wrote complaining of noise at Schwalbach's garage on that street. It was referred to the corporation counsel and street committee.

The board also transacted considerable routine matters and then adjourned.

First Payment Made to Buy Sharpe Property

New York Men in Hotel Enterprise Pledge Their Faith in Cash—Subscriptions Here Continue at Satisfactory Rate.

The initial cash payment of $10,000 on the purchase price of the Sharpe property at Albany and Clinton avenues at the site of Kingston's $750,000 hotel, was made to Judge Sharpe in New York city on Tuesday by the New York city associates of the enterprise, and will be completed in accordance with the terms of the contract later.

Subscriptions to the $150,000 allotment of stock to Ulster county continue to come in to the canvassers who have been working to secure the new hotel for Kingston, and they will probably continue their canvass until the end of this week.

Greater interest is being shown each day both in Kingston and throughout Ulster county in Oscar Tschirky and the new hotel, and travelers and tourists are becoming aware that the world famous "Oscar of the Waldorf" is interested in the new hotel in the county where he has his home and family. Of course, there is scarcely a man or woman in the United States who does not know about the Waldorf, and to people who have followed the history of the Waldorf-Astoria it is not surprising to find that people know just as much about "Oscar" as they do of the famous New York hotel.

The promptness with which Kingston subscribed to an average of $22,000 a day for each of the first five days of the canvass for the preferred stock of the new hotel never has been equaled by any other enterprise or by any "drive" or campaign held here, and the progress of subscriptions since that time has been entirely satisfactory.

The small number of canvassers engaged in subscribing to the stock of the new hotel indicates plainly the physical impossibility of every canvasser having a chance to see each of his or her friends, either in Ulster county or in this city, and any person who desires to get in direct communication with any of the canvassers may do so by telephoning to the Chamber of Commerce (Call 504). Such a message will bring one of the canvassers within a reasonable time and any information which is desired in regard to the new hotel will be promptly furnished.

SHOPMEN DUE TO STRIKE JULY 1

Rail Executives Not Expected to Bow to Jewell's Ultimatum to Ignore Board's Wage Cut Decisions and Stop Contract Work.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, June 28.—Railway executives who were served last night with an ultimatum by the shopcraft unions that a strike will be called July 1, unless certain demands are met, are not expected to accede to the unions' demand, according to opinion prevalent in railway circles here today. If the unions carry out their threat, the long threatened strike of shop men probably will be called Saturday.

The unions, in a 2,000-word telegram sent to T. Dowitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of American Railway Executives, demand that the wage cuts ordered by the United States Railway Labor Board, restore certain working rules which the board has revised and abolish the system of contracting out shop work. The alternative is a strike.

The telegram was sent by H. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Employees' Department of the American Federation of Labor. Jewell spoke as the representative of section two of the department, which comprises the machinists. Maintenance of way employees are not parties to the ultimatum. It is expected, however, that if the strike is called, the maintenance of way men will join in.

FRENCH SMUT "BEARS" PARIS BEAUTY MARKET

By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, June 28.—"Nowadays one has to bring American girls to Paris to show the French the real meaning of the word beauty," declared Florenz Zeigfeld, world's champion picker of feminine peaches, in an exclusive interview today with International News Service. Mr. Zeigfeld, whose New York theatrical chorus have caused the heart of many a man to flutter, paid American girls one of the highest compliments they have ever received from a beauty expert.

In a statement to International News Service today, he said: "Until recently Paris was the greatest center of beauty in the world. Ten years ago a theatrical man who wished to dazzle audiences with the beauty of his choruses, came to Paris to find the girls. But now all is changed.

"I prefer to pay American prices for American beauties rather than import them, and there is no duty on beauties either.

"French theatres are now substituting nakedness and smutty dialogue to make up for the absence of beauty. Nude women at the Folies are not beautiful—they are simply naked women."

Preliminary plans for the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau outing at Forsyth Park were discussed Tuesday evening at a meeting of the joint committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Farm and Home Bureau. While the exact date has not been settled on, the outing will be some time about the middle of August, after the oats harvest and before the peach, grape and early fall apple season begins. There will be no older mill this year, but some other feature as unique will be introduced.

Probably the big event of the day will be a horse shoe pitching tournament between teams representing various localities and organizations in the county. It is hoped that the Chamber of Commerce will offer a cup to be contested for, to remain the property of the winning team until, in some subsequent tournament, another team wins it. Mr. Chase of the Farm Bureau has been directed by the committee to at once formulate rules for the tournament and take charge of the organization and entry of teams. Mr. Chase being a renowned expert at the game and having won great glory at a tournament recently held at Cornell College.

E. W. Hathaway, chairman of the executive committee, will have charge of the grounds and is the man for those who desire exhibition space to see.

It is hoped, with the aid of the city authorities, to continue the policy in force last year and keep the grounds entirely free of fakers, ballyhoo men and catcpenney devices. The Home Bureau, with Mrs. Elmer Smith as chairman of the Refreshment Committee, will have charge of the sale of refreshments.

A large, loud and industrious brass band will be on the job all afternoon and if a good time is not had by all it will not be the fault of the committee or of the Chamber of Commerce, whose guests the visitors will be.

CITY SWELTERED ON HOTTEST DAY

With thermometers on the Strand registering as high as 102 degrees the city sweltered in the heat of the hottest June day so far experienced this month. If today is any indication there are plenty of sweltering hot days in store this summer, and those who believed that the summer was to prove a cool one are bound to be disappointed. Along the Rondout creek the boys could be seen enjoying a swim, and throughout the city a large number of the men doffed their outer coats and found that shirt sleeves were cooler than coats.

might just as well refuse to see a hole in the sidewalk.

The most you get out of a vacation is thinking about it, but just thinking about it would not complete the job. A vacation does everybody some good and keeps the world young. The mountains and seashore offer attractions enough to suit everybody, and those who cannot get some fun out of one or the other are those who make their own fun and do not require help from anybody else. There is one thing that cannot be provided and that is any particular brand of fun that will please everybody.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Sends any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Can parrots be mated in this climate? And if so in what month do they mate?
2. Is it true fish don't have blood, and can they live after being frozen in ice?
3. How can I destroy a hornet's nest hanging below the eaves of my barn? I am afraid one of the horses may get stung some day going in or out, and a bad accident result.

Answers In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions?

1. What are caraway seeds? They are not true seeds, but the dried fruit from a plant belonging to the same family as parsley, and called scientifically Carum carvi, whose native home is Europe. The buds are borne on terminal clusters and do look like seeds when dried. The whole plant is an aromatic herb. If a seed is cut across and examined under a microscope, it shows tiny tubes in it filled with volatile oil which gives the "seed" its flavor.
2. When did they start importing reindeer into Alaska? The start really was a report to the U. S. government in 1887, following the cruise of the steamer Corwin, wherein the starving condition of Eskimos was noted as a reason for bringing in domestic reindeer from Lapland, to replace the native caribou, exterminated by reckless hunting. A small privately financed experiment encouraged extending the work and by 1894 congress made an appropriation. Eventually the government spent $25,000 a year, and established many valuable herds, distributed to responsible private owners.
3. Are cuckoo nest robbers? To a negligible extent, yes, in some individual cases, if we are to believe the U. S. Dept. of Agr., which examined 155 cuckoo stomachs and found a trifle of egg shell in a few cases. But the food is so conspicuously of caterpillars, webworms, tussock moths and similar noxious insects, the cuckoo is counted wholly beneficial. It is said that each cuckoo saves about $10 worth of fruit and grain a season, by its police work.

THOSE COLORED TROOPS.

It seems that the French still keep 15,000 soldiers from North Africa in the Rhineland, most of them being "described as 'Arabs of oval face and thin lips.' The black Senegalese negroes have long since been withdrawn. Nevertheless there is still objection, and General Allen in command of the American handful at Coblenz has indiscreetly permitted himself to be quoted as saying that the presence of "colored troops" in the French zone is undesirable. Whether the French retort or refrain from retorting that General Allen's remarks are due to American color prejudice, it is obvious that he has spoken about a matter which is neither his nor his country's concern.

After investigation on the scene J. Ellis Barker, the British publicist wrote that there was no German complaint against the French colored troops until eighteen months after the armistice, that the complaints began at a time when the Germans were seeking American support against the reparations claims, and were propaganda seeking profit out of American color prejudice. However that may be, it is interesting to learn of a prominent German's admission that the French were driven by necessity to employ colored troops. That free-spoken publicist, Maximilian Harden, is quoted as saying that the dark-skinned and negro French colonials were employed "not to humiliate Germany" but because "France requires the arms of her sons for her agriculture and industry."

Harden said further: "The African negro type in the bitter cartoons of the German papers does not resemble in the slightest degree the type of the French colonial soldiers."

A Popular Style.

3894. Not only for grown ups is the "over the skirt" blouse attractive. It is just the right style for the school girl. In this mode it is portrayed with new features. This style may be made with or without the "bosom" front. It also has the new collar, so girlish and pleasing. The skirt is straight and plaited. Prunella, Jersey or broad cloth are suitable materials for this dress.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. A 12 year size requires 1 1/2 yards of 42 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

HUDSON RIVER STURGEON GONE

Albany Beef a Rarity—Once Worth Four Cents a Pound and Sold Chiefly to the Poor Now Commands a Fancy Price.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 28.—The opening of the season for sturgeon no longer brings the thrill to the bosom of the Hudson river fishermen that it did in years gone by when smoked sturgeon was "Albany beef" and the city was nicknamed "Sturgeon Town."

The time is at hand when the last specimen of the lordly Hudson river sturgeon might lift his head from the waters of his ancient home and, paraphrasing Rip Van Winkle, ask: "Does no one here know Hudson Sturgeon?"

Half a century or more ago sturgeon sold at retail in Albany at four cents a pound or less. On rare occasions when smoked sturgeon, "Albany Beef," has appeared in recent years in the Albany market, it has brought seventy-five cents a pound and disappeared so quickly that few know of its presence.

A six-foot sturgeon, once too common to warrant a passing glance from an Albanian, today would draw a bigger crowd than P. T. Barnum's famous white whale.

In proportion as its value for food became appreciated, the sturgeon decreased in the Hudson river. In the early years of the last century few except the very poor used this fish as food; but a short time after the Civil War the sturgeon came into an appreciation which, in conjunction with pollution of various establishments, has resulted in its practical extermination from the Hudson, a stream with which its name was almost synonymous. As this valuable food-fish decreased, its price rose. A taste for the roe of sturgeon was manifested in the early fifties and shortly afterward the meat was smoked and one of the table delicacies of the American home was introduced.

Older residents of Albany remember distinctly the time when this fish was facetiously called "Albany Beef" because of its abundance, and because the dealer in that city was poorly stocked who had not almost constantly on display specimens which would tip the beam at from 200 to 300 pounds. In the fifties, the roe of this great fish, which is now so highly esteemed, was only used as bait for eels and perch or as food for hogs, and the best retail price that could be obtained for the flesh was three cents to four cents per pound. It was not until the seventies that a price at all commensurate to its merit as food could be obtained.

Where X-Rays Are Fatal.

Roentgen rays over the abdomen prove fatal in a large number of experiments on dogs, while the same rays over the thorax produce no ill effects. This important fact has been learned by many experiments made at the University of California medical school by S. L. Warren and Dr. G. H. Whipple, who report results for the Journal of Experimental Medicine.

DIES WHEN AUTO FOULS BRIDGE

Chief Vacationist Killed on Greenfield Road—Threats of Lynching for Driver Grow into Agitation Among Jews at Ellenville—Arrest Made.

Ida Weintraub, of No. 872 East One Hundred and Sixty-first street, New York city, was killed Monday night when the large automobile of Leon Barnum of Bridgeville, Sullivan county, in which she was riding, mounted the stringpiece of a bridge which crosses the Bearkill creek on the Greenfield road, about two miles from Ellenville, and upset, toppling four occupants in the creek.

With Miss Weintraub at the time of the accident were Miss Jessie Dullberger, of No. 848 East One Hundred and Sixty-fourth street, who had arrived with her a week ago at Bridgeville, where they intended to spend their vacation; Barnum, who owned and drove the automobile, and Max Loewy of Bridgeville. Barnum and Loewy had paid marked attention to the two young ladies since their arrival in Bridgeville.

Immediately after the accident, which happened shortly before midnight, a number of summer boarders arrived at the scene, and their ranks were augmented by other boarders of the neighborhood who were aroused by the noise. Before long there was a crowd of about a hundred men, women and children, some of them fully dressed and some in various stages of undress.

The crowd concluded that Barnum was guilty of gross carelessness and there were demands that he should be lynched, but nobody except Barnum apparently took those threats seriously. There was a disposition, however, among the men to give Barnum a thrashing, and they followed him to Ellenville, where the threats were renewed.

Chief of Police Nickerson of Ellenville later accompanied Barnum in an automobile to Bridgeville, and they were followed by five automobile loads of young Jewish men who expressed the hope of having a chance to do something to Barnum, but he reached home safely.

Throughout Tuesday there was a large crowd of summer boarders in the streets of Ellenville, and about four o'clock in the afternoon one of the crowd became impudent to Chief Nickerson, who started to arrest him. Chief Nickerson is somewhat stout and was unable to pursue the young man, who had started to run, so he shouted to someone to catch the man he was chasing. One of the crowd obeyed the chief's orders, whereupon the crowd turned on him and threatened to lynch him. Milton Goldstein was the young man who was arrested, and his hearing was fixed for today.

Miss Weintraub's body was sent to New York city before District Attorney Traver learned of the case, and he immediately began efforts to have it taken in charge there by the proper authorities for the purpose of an autopsy. The inquest will be held at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning at Firemen's Hall, Ellenville.

At the point where the accident happened there is a sharp horseshoe curve on the road. In approaching the bridge over the stream from the direction which the car came it is almost impossible to see both stringpieces of the bridge at night, especially if the car is traveling rapidly and the opinion seems to be that the driver of the car saw the one stringpiece of the bridge and he rounded the turn and steered for what he thought was the center of the bridge only to find that he was headed for the outside of the bridge. It was evidently too late to turn on to the bridge for the car struck the stringpiece of the bridge and ran up this for a distance of fifteen feet before it toppled over into the creek below. Under Sheriff Haulenbeck and Night Jailor Smith Jocelyn visited the scene of the accident Tuesday. The ironwork of the bridge is badly damaged where the car struck, indicating that the car was traveling at a considerable speed when the accident happened.

MONEY SENT TO FREE BIELASKI

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, June 28.—An official of the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., which furnished $5,000 gold for the ransom of A. Bruce Bielaski, former chief of the bureau of investigation of the American department of justice, said today that he momentarily expected news from Mexico City that Bielaski had been released by the outlaws who seized him.

J. F. Shaw, of the banking firm, who is personally handling the Bielaski matter, received the following cablegram from the Banque Francaise du Mexique at Mexico City: "Mr. Barceña, a Mexican lawyer, who was captured with Mr. Bielaski, has been released and is working for the release of Bielaski. The money is at Tientsin and we expect favorable results momentarily. We know that Bielaski has suffered no harm. Mrs. Bielaski is here and is well."

This dispatch had been filed in Mexico City at 11:52 last night.

P. R. R. CUTS WAGES, WORKERS AGREEING

42,500 Affected in Maintenance, Telegraph and Signal Department—New Scale Adopted After Voluntary Negotiations Without Outside Intervention.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Philadelphia, June 27.—An announcement was made yesterday by the Pennsylvania Railroad that agreements on reduction of wages had been reached between the management and the elected representatives of 42,500 of its employees. The settlements affect the maintenance-of-way department, embracing 39,400 men, and the employees of the telegraph and signal department, numbering 3,100 men.

The revised scales become effective July 1. They involve reductions which have been mutually agreed upon to conform with the lower cost of living, the general conditions of employment throughout the country and the demand of the public for cheaper transportation, as expressed in the Interstate Commerce Commission's order reducing freight rates, the announcement stated.

No figures were given out by the company. Because of its negotiations with committees of its employees, the Pennsylvania was not a party to the reductions asked for by other railroads and granted by the United States Railroad Labor Board.

The Pennsylvania's statement further said:

"The negotiations were entirely voluntary and were conducted solely between management representatives on the one side and elected representatives of the employees on the other, free from outside intervention."

"The information on which these negotiations were based was gathered jointly by representatives of the management and of the employees from industries in the territory served by the Pennsylvania system. The management desires to thank not only the employees and their officers concerned for the spirit in which the negotiations were conducted, but also the industries along the lines of the system for their cooperation in furnishing such information."

"This successful outcome of the wage negotiations with the maintenance-of-way and telegraph and signal employees constitutes one of the most notable achievements thus far recorded for the Pennsylvania Railroad's employee representation plan. This plan, for the amicable settlement of controversial questions, was first put into effect by mutual consent, on Jan. 1, 1921.

"Since that time, and prior to the opening of negotiations, the plan has been instrumental in bringing to peaceful and satisfactory settlement more than 9,000 controversial questions between management and employees."

MCUMBER FIGHTS BIGGEST BATTLE

Father of Tariff and Bonus Bills, Veteran Senate Leader, Quite Likely to Be Defeated for Renomination in North Dakota Primary Today.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, June 28.—Official and political Washington turned away from its tariff wrangling, the coal crisis and kindred worries, today, and watched with absorbing interest the North Dakota primary in which one of the most conspicuous legislators in Washington in the last two decades is fighting for his political life—with an excellent chance of losing it.

Private advices reaching the capital from North Dakota indicate that Senator Porter J. McCumber, chairman of the powerful senate finance committee and principal author of the existing tariff and bonus bills, will be defeated for renomination in the Republican primary today by Lynn J. Frazier, the Non-partisan League's ex-governor.

McCumber's friends dispute the League's advance claims of a Frazier victory. They admit, however, that the result is going to be "extremely close," and some of the more pessimistic concede that "it looks like Frazier." Senator McCumber himself has told friends that "it looks like a fifty-fifty fight."

It is the irony of political fate that McCumber, who could be placed in jeopardy at this time, after 22 years of continuous service in the senate at a time when he has climbed the heights in a legislative way, and when, by the death of Boies Penrose, he has captured the senate's most coveted place, the chairmanship of the all-powerful finance committee.

While McCumber's removal from Washington is frankly expected in some quarters of the capital, it would nevertheless cause a sensation in Washington. Its effect would be considerable on the Republican legislative program. For one thing it would leave the present tariff bill and the present bonus bill fatherless, as Representative Jos. W. Forney, Republican of Michigan, the house sponsor of these two important measures, is also retiring from congress this session. It would also bring Senator Reed Smoot, Republican of Utah, into the chairmanship of the finance committee and place next in line of succession Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin. The picture of La Follette's possible succession to the chairmanship of finance, brings cold shivers to many organization leaders.

While the quarrel in North Dakota is principally a Republican one, the Democrats are nevertheless deeply interested in it. Their probable candidate for senator is J. T. O'Connor, of Grand Forks, a Yale graduate, and the Democrats are frankly hopeful that the McCumber-Frazier feud will be so intense as to split the party in November, allowing a Democrat to come to the senate from North Dakota for the first time in many years.

HALL ON POLO TEAM THAT DEFEATED YALE

The Princeton polo team defeated Yale Tuesday at Meadowbrook by 11 goals to 5. The game was played on a soggy field which made the victory over the well groomed Yale team even more of a surprise to the Princeton supporters. A. Parker Hall, grandson of Judge Alton B. Parker of Roseton, Esopus, and a son of the Rev. Charles Mercer Hall, former rector of the Church of the Holy Cross on Pine Grove avenue, was one of the big point getters for the Princeton team, he being second high scorer. Princeton was indebted to W. H. Jackson and Captain Hall for the superior hitting and team work that obviously enabled them to defeat the Yale four.

They found no paddle wheels running, they having been ordered stopped Monday by Chief of Police Richter. Sheriff Kolts will report the result of his investigation to the district attorney.

HOW TOWN BOARD VOTED ON LIGHTS

The Tie Vote in Esopus Town Board Has Caused the Lights on That Half of the Rondout Creek Bridge to Be Snuffed Out—Only Four Votes Were Cast.

Monday night the lights on the Esopus half of the Rondout Creek Bridge were snuffed out by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company as a result of the action of the town board of Esopus held Saturday in the town clerk's office. Since then both Kingston and the town of Esopus residents have wondered what went on at the monthly meeting of the town board and who voted in favor of lighting the Esopus half of the bridge and who did not.

At the opening of the meeting held in the town clerk's office, the clerk announced that the Kingston Gas & Electric Company had stated: "Unless the town comes to an agreement on this day that the company would remove the lights from the Rondout Creek Bridge."

Justice Henry E. McKenzie offered a resolution "that the supervisor of the town be authorized to contract with the electric company for the lighting of the Esopus end of the bridge, the company to furnish seven lights at a cost of $276 per annum."

The motion was seconded by Justice Beaver and Justice McKenzie called for the roll call. One of the justices had already come from the meeting, leaving the supervisor and three justices, the only ones qualified to vote upon the question.

The roll was called by the clerk and those voting for the motion were Justices McKenzie and Beaver; those voting against were Supervisor Elsworth and Justice Best.

In explanation of the vote by those opposed it was stated that those residing in the lower end of the town were almost unanimously opposed to expending money for the purpose of lighting the bridge.

For the enlightenment of the opposition it was stated that the tax to be paid by the town for the bridge lights would amount to one cent for every $1,000 assessment.

No argument advanced by Justice McKenzie seemed to have any effect and the statement that the people of the town would be considered parsimonious and impecunious was disregarded.

No reconsideration of the question was had and the town board has branded the rest of the townspeople as one hundred years behind the times; not desirous for progress; and still dozing in the days of Rip Van Winkle.

NATIONAL DEBTS VEX THE HAGUE

France, With Truckloads of Russian Bonds, Wants Assurance From Soviets That They Will Be Paid.

By Telegram to The Freeman. The Hague, June 28.—The international conference on reconstruction of Russia approached dangerous shoals today when it took up the question of national debts.

Members of the Russian legation conferred with the Allied sub-committee on debts, headed by M. Albani, a Frenchman. The French are understood to have received precise instructions from Paris to lay down hard and fast conditions which Russia must accept if the conference is to continue.

Owing to the large number of Frenchmen who own Russian government bonds, France is insisting that the Soviet recognize the whole Russian national debt, contracted both before and after the war. The Russians have consented to recognize the debt in principle, but claim that they cannot pay it. The outcome of the discussions today should show what chances the conference has of continuing.

There was a lively discussion by representatives of the "Big Five"—England, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan—regarding the answer to a Russian communication asking if France and Belgium are taking part in the conference on the same footing as the other nations. An affirmative answer was given. Russia asked for clear cut assurances that France and Belgium accepted the Geneva resolutions, but both were reluctant to reply affirmatively to this.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE SHEEP

"They had to take a lamb to sell in the market," said Daddy, "and so they were going to give the Mother Sheep whose lamb they had taken another lamb to look after."

"In order that Mother Sheep would not feel badly and in order to make her look after the new lamb they took the skin of the lamb that had been killed and sold in the market and put it over her newly adopted lamb."

"The little alive lamb wore the other lamb's skin over him as a cape until Mother Sheep became used to him. Then he did not wear it any longer after she was willing to take him as her own."

"Then she looked after him and nursed him and mothered him."

"But at first he had had to wear the skin of the other one so he would have a lamby-like smell."

"Now there are black-faced sheep," Daddy continued, "known as Shropshires. They have black legs too. Their wool is medium wool and the white faced sheep have coarse wool."

"There are different kinds of wool, coarse and Merino and fine and downy and Persian."

"There isn't any sense as far as I have ever been able to make out," said Daddy, "to the saying that any member of a family who isn't as nice as the other members is a black sheep."

"For there is nothing harmful about black sheep that I could ever make out."

"Now by a field where there were many sheep there passed a long train of cars filled with coal."

"Two engines were pulling this great long train of cars. It seemed like an endless load. But the cars seemed to be willing to be pulled along as there were the two strong engines pulling for all they were worth."

"They stopped for while by the Sheep field and one of the Sheep said, 'Baa, baa, baa, there is a great deal of coal there.'"

"Baa, baa, baa," said another Sheep, "coal is not particularly beautiful."

"But I suppose it is useful," said a third.

"Yes," said a fourth, "and it's quite grand for the coal to be carried along by two engines and to require so much grandeur."

"That does seem impressive," said a fifth Sheep.

"Well," said the sixth Sheep, "perhaps it isn't grand to ride in a coal car, but still if one is a piece of coal"

"Where There Were Many Sheep."

It is grand to ride in a coal car I should think.

"And it is quite a suitable and proper thing to do."

"Quite, baa, baa, baa, quite," said a seventh Sheep.

"I think it's fine that they have cars all to themselves. That's what I think," said an eighth Sheep.

"Yes, I agree, baa, baa, baa, I agree," said a ninth Sheep.

"For," he continued, "I remember when Granddaddy was traveling from the farm in the next state to this farm. He didn't have a car all to himself."

"There were trunks and boxes and all sorts of things in the same car as he was in."

"I hope the coal is thinking of the honor," said another Sheep.

"I doubt it," said yet another. "Coal can't think as coal isn't human. Coal is mineral. Baa, baa, baa, that's quite bright of me. Quite bright of me."

"Then the coal cars, drawn by the two engines, started off again, and the Sheep bleated and said, each to the other,

"Coal is a mineral. We've learned that today. And Sheep are animals."

"And the little baby tomatoes growing on yonder vine, both the yellow ones and the red ones—they're vegetables. So we're all fixed up, baa, baa, baa. We're all fixed up!"

"And what the Sheep bleated was the truth," ended Daddy.

His Preference.

Willie was in a bad temper. His mother had just discovered that there was not a clean nightshirt ready for him to wear.

"Never mind, Willie," she said consolingly. "You will have to put on one of your sister's nightgowns tonight."

"What? A girl's?" snorted Willie, drawing himself up haughtily.

"Yes. Why not?" asked mother in surprise.

"I won't wear it!" declared the small boy. "I'd rather go to bed raw."

GAS BUGGIES—Give em an excuse and they all fall

THEM DAYS IS GONE FOREVER

"In the Shade of the Old Family Tree."

The KITCHEN CABINET

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Take every good thing that comes your way. There are so many pleasant little outings that would send you home rested and with different viewpoint, but you think up some excuse and do not go.

SOMETHING YOU WILL LIKE

When you have roast lamb the next time, try this sauce to serve with it:

Orange Sauce.—Take one-half cupful of gravy from the roast, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and brown sauce, add the juice of two and the rind of one orange grated, or the peeling, boiled in water five minutes, then removed and cut in strips. Add one-half cupful or more of boiling water, salt, cayenne and the juice of a lemon. Serve hot.

Caramel Sauce.—Soften one-fourth of a package of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of water. Brown one-half cupful of sugar, then add one cupful of boiling water, stir until dissolved, add the gelatin and stir over ice water until it thickens. Have ready two egg whites beaten stiff, add them to the gelatin mixture; continue beating until stiff. Turn into a mold. Serve with thin cream.

Glazed Tongue.—Wash and soak the tongue over night. In the morning place it in a kettle with cold water to cover. Bring to the simmering point and cook at that temperature for several hours until the tongue is very tender. Set away to cool in the liquor. When cold remove the skin from the tongue and trim. Fasten the tip and end together with a skewer and lay in a mold. Heat three cupfuls of the liquor, add one cupful of tomatoes, a bay leaf, a slice of onion, salt and pepper as needed, twelve cloves, one or two allspice, and simmer for twenty minutes. Strain and add one ounce of gelatin which has been softened in a little water. Then cover the tongue and set away on ice to harden. Unmold and garnish with olives and parsley.

Club Salad.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of cooked chicken, twelve slices of bacon, three tomatoes and lettuce. Arrange the lettuce on individual plates, place on each a peeled tomato, a little diced cooked bacon and some mayonnaise dressing, top with some of the chicken, more mayonnaise and a sprig of parsley. Around the dish, spoke fashion, arrange four or six tiny toast points.

Timber Preservative. In some of the Western mines the water that is pumped from the mine contains a considerable amount of copper sulphate, and experiments have shown that this acts as a preservative in protecting the mine timbers against decay. Timbers which have been allowed to soak in this mine water for two or three weeks, sometimes outlast three sets of untreated timbers. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Studebaker

If Studebaker built nothing but the Big-Six, you would never be able to buy one of these extraordinary cars for $1785 at the factory.

The expense of manufacturing and marketing Studebaker cars is shared by three distinct models, the Light-Six, the Special-Six and the Big-Six. That means one executive management, one manufacturing organization, one purchasing unit and one selling cost—instead of three separate organizations.

Consider the Big-Six as an investment—how much you get for your money, plus the amount you actually save.

We know of no car, even at twice its price, that will give you greater satisfaction in the matters of endurance, appearance, comfort, serviceability and the refinements. In everything that goes to make up your appreciation of a car, the Big-Six ranks with the finest built. But it distinctly does not rank with them in price!

The theory that high prices necessarily mean fine cars is fallacious, simply because prices are not based upon intrinsic values but upon production costs of individual makers, which vary widely according to their ability and manufacturing facilities.

Obviously, high costs of production, inevitably arising from incompetence or inadequate manufacturing facilities, mean not only high prices but actually inferior cars.

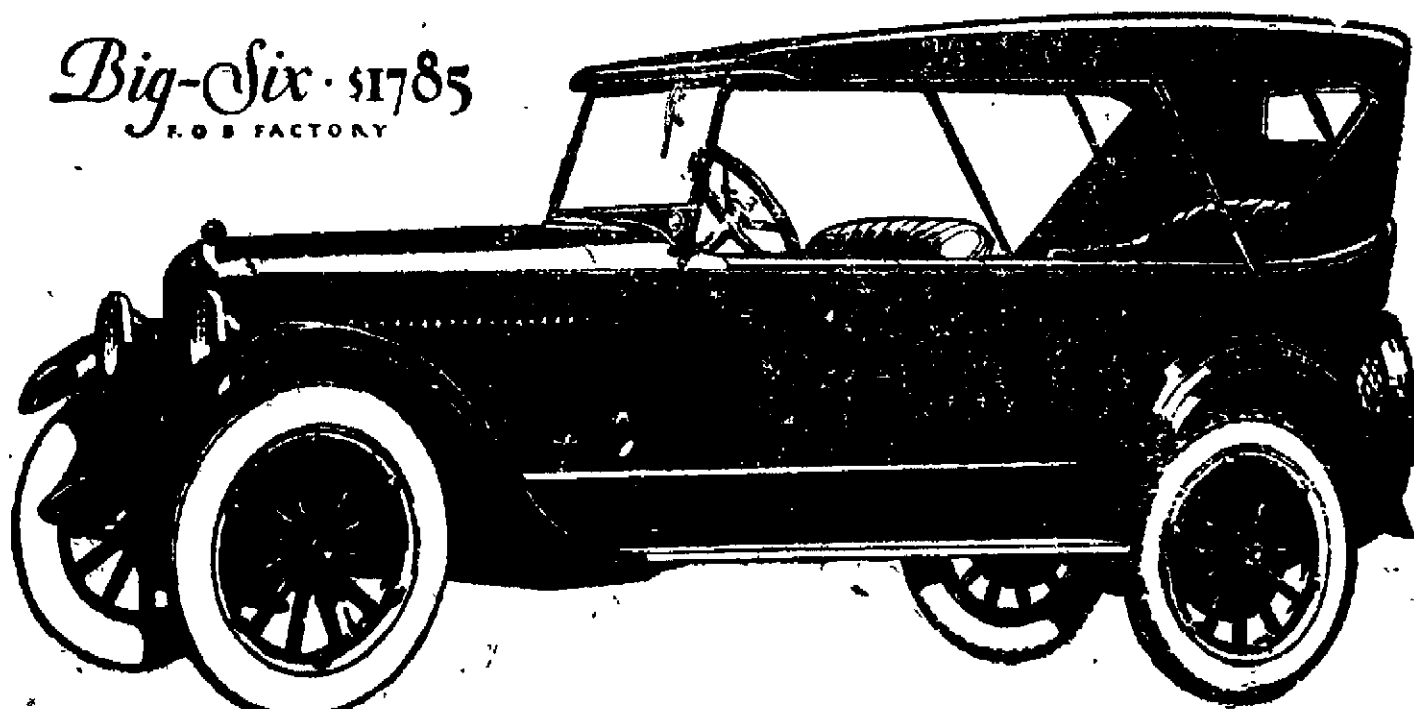

The materials and workmanship in Studebaker Cars measure up to the highest standards known to the automobile industry.

With $70,000,000 of actual net assets, including $36,000,000 of plant facilities, and seventy years' manufacturing experience, Studebaker stands unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give the greatest intrinsic value possible for a given price.

HAYS TO ADDRESS WOMEN'S CLUBS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chautauque, N. Y., June 28.—Resolutions calling upon congress to bring the Towner-Sterling bill out of committee and pass it without delay and urging "that the people of America do all in their power to abolish the horrors of war through law, reason and mutual understanding," were passed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in session here today.

Among resolutions which were presented, but which will not be acted upon until later, was one urging congress to make intelligent use of the Muscle Shoals plan, and another advocating the instruction of citizenship in public schools. A resolution calling for federal control of all prisons, mental examinations of all prisoners and employment for all prisoners, was referred back to the committee because of a clause which read that goods produced by convicts should have their rightful place in the open market.

Martin E. Brumbaugh, former governor of Pennsylvania and director of community service, in addressing the club women, told them that they must center their activities upon preventive volunteer service rather than remedial service.

Interest today centers about Will H. Hays and his evening address on "Upholding the Nation's Life Through Moving Pictures." Other speakers of prominence include Dr. Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general of the United States, and Hugh Frazer, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor.

Clark for the Thirty-fourth Congressional District. A new political organization, the Liberal Backboners' League, is backing her on a platform of public ownership and operation of all public transportation, abolition of patents, inventors to be rewarded by Government bonus, direct Federal taxation of States to abolish indirect taxation, municipal taxation of land only, establishment of municipal stores, employment by the cities of all who desire employment at $2 a day and other so-called socialistic views.

ZIONIZING THE HOLY LAND

London Office of World Organization of Jews Reports $10,000,000 Spent in Development in Four Years.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, June 23.—An announcement was made yesterday at the opening of the annual Zionist convention in this city that two million pounds, or approximately ten million dollars, most of which was raised in America through the Keren Hayesod (Palestine Foundation Fund), was spent in Palestine during the past four years to rebuild the Jewish homeland, and the cost of administration for the same period was less than ten per cent. of the total expenditure.

This statement was contained in a report presented to the convention from the London office of the World Zionist Organization, of which Dr. Chaim Weizmann is president.

During that period, the report stated, land was purchased, immigration promoted, accommodations and employment provided for immigrants, agriculture, commerce and industry were encouraged and developed, loans were advanced to pioneers on farms and in business enterprises, banks were established, educational system was maintained and developed and a public health and social service system were instituted.

MUST NEVER BE OFF GUARD

Men Who Train or Care for Wild Animals in Circuses Cannot Afford to Relax Vigilance.

There's a saying in the circus zoo when a new attendant, disregarding the warnings of old-timers, becomes careless while working about the cages. "Here's a new animal trainer," the veterans will remark, as they watch the fresh helper petting a tiger or a leopard. They know that it is only a matter of a few days until the "cat" will lash out with its claws unsheathed and rip the arm of the newcomer. They also know that nothing will teach this type of attendant the alert carelessness necessary in handling wild beasts but an ugly scratching. They can only hope that the man's hurts will be slight. He must have a lesson. He must realize that all animals are dangerous at all times, even if some are more so than others.

One often hears it contemptuously remarked, writes Frank Braden in Popular Mechanics Magazine, that such and such a beast in an act is "just a mangy, toothless old lion," but often that mangy, toothless old lion, because of its rage, is more dangerous than its mates in their prime. The old lion is testy, and no matter what its years, it carries a wallop backed by rippling claws. Some of the world's foremost trainers, working with the same beasts in acts year after year, have paid for the slight carelessness that familiarity with and affection for their jungle pets have insidiously brought about. At an unexpected diversion—the overturning of a pedestal, for instance—the animals have leaped upon their mentor, but with the element of complete surprise absent, no real wild-animal expert is caught completely unaware by a beast's leap.

"Jerry Builders." Jerry built may be derived from the jury mast, a temporary mast erected on ships in time of emergency. Another derivation is from the cyprip expression, Jerry, meaning anything contemptible.

Dr. Walter Rathenau, v.g.

Dr. Walter Rathenau, Foreign Secretary of the German Republic and one of the foremost economic experts of the world, was shot dead while on his way from his home to his office by an assassin who is believed to have been a monarchist sympathizer who thought Rathenau was surrendering too much to the Allies. Dr. Rathenau was one German who commanded the respect and confidence of the Allies and was the chief link in any amicable dealings that were carried on. It was he who secured the consent of France to permit part of the indemnity to be paid in goods instead of gold.

Why You Should Use Vudor Porch Shades

1st.—Because they are stained instead of painted, therefore cannot fade.

2nd.—Because they have a patent ventilation top. The only shade made with a ventilation top.

3rd.—Because they have a Safety Wind Device Cord, preventing shades from swinging in the wind.

4th.—Because they have a roll of glides handled by pulleys, so they never stick or bind.

5th.—Because they are easily put up.

6th.—Because they will not warp.

7th.—Because they last so long.

XVII. LOOSE-COUPLED COILS

Coils, on as they are more often called, tuning coils, are very essential parts of radio telegraph and telephony. The old style tuning coil, as used in wireless telegraphy, has been largely superseded by the type known as loose-coupled coils or adjustable coils which may be altered or adjusted to tune much finer or more closely than by the old type coil. Although it is not difficult to make a loose-coupled coil yet as is the case with many of the parts of radio sets, it is as cheap and far more satisfactory to purchase them ready made. The conventional type of loose-coupled coil consists of two distinct coils, one within the other, as shown in Fig. 47. One of these is the primary coil, the other the secondary or induction coil. The two are so arranged that the inner or secondary coil slips back and forth within the larger or primary coil, thus varying the coupling or induction, for the electricity—or oscillations—in the secondary coil is merely induced by the primary circuit in the outer coil, so that if a portion of the secondary coil is withdrawn from the primary coil, as shown in the figure, there will be less induced current and in this way tuning is accomplished. To allow of still finer adjustment, the primary coil is provided with an adjustable slider A, and the secondary coil has a multi-pointed switch B.

Another type of loose-coupled coil is arranged so that one coil revolves within the other, while another type, which is the simplest of all for the amateur to construct and gives the best results, is composed of three discs or coils "staggered" which may be adjusted back and forth. To make one of these indicators you will require some stiff, smooth cardboard, heavy Bristol board, thin fibroboard or similar composition and about half a pound of No. 24 to C. C. wire. Also, in setting up and arranging the coils, you will require binding posts, knobs, a little sheet brass and a few other odds and ends. With a pair of dividers or compasses draw three circles on the cardboard or fibre, each about four to five inches in diameter having all exactly the same size. Then using the dividers, scribe off an unequal number (five, seven or ten) marks around the circumference of each circle. Fig. 47, A. Next, still using the dividers, draw a smaller circle, say one and one-half inches to two and one-half inches in diameter within each circle (B). If the circles are four inches in diameter use the smaller circle inside, if five inches the larger one, and with a rule draw radiating lines one-fourth of an inch apart from each of the marks on the outer circle to the center of the circle (C). With a pair of scissors or a sharp knife (if cardboard is used) or a fine saw (if fibre), cut out the discs and cut slots in each disc according to the marks, as shown at (D). Next, if you have used cardboard, give each slotted disc a thorough covering with shellac, using at least three coats, and when thoroughly dry proceed to wind the discs or coils. In doing this, start the wire being sure to leave enough for connections—at a point at the inner end of one slot and wind over one segment and under the next, and as the number is uneven you will find that the wires will thus cross, as shown at (E). The number of times the wire should be passed can only be decided upon by experimenting after the coil is in use, but, as a starter, about twenty-five or thirty turns on one, about one and one-half times as many, or say thirty-eight to forty-five on the second, and twice as many on the third as on the first, or from fifty to sixty, will be somewhere near right. Then, by removing or adding a few turns, as you adjust your receivers you can finally secure the very best results. To mount this coil so it may be used, the coil or disc with the least turns, or, in other words, the primary coil, should be mounted rigidly and immovably and should be connected by means of binding posts to the aerial and ground wires. The secondary coil and the tickler coil should then be fastened to brass or metal strips about two or two and one-half inches long, one-sixteenth inch thick and half an inch wide. One end of each strip should be attached by small bolts or screws to the coils and the other end

MORE HEAVY RAINS HURT GRAIN CROPS

More damage to crops by flooding and washing was reported last week, and corn and grain on the lowlands are suffering considerably from the effects of excessive moisture, according to the summary of weather and crop conditions for the week ending June 27, issued by the Kansas office of the weather bureau. The ground is generally saturated and not in condition to be worked. Saturday was warm, otherwise temperatures were considerably below normal. Further heavy to excessive rains accompanied a serious deficiency in sunshine. Corn is backward and needs cultivation, warmth and sunshine. The weather has been favorable, however, for potatoes, grass and pasture, which are still further improved and in good to excellent condition. The strawberry harvest is nearing its close. Cherries are being picked and are a good crop except in sections where frost injury was most severe. Apples are still dropping badly.

PORT EWEN LIBRARY SECRETARY'S REPORT

The following is the secretary's report of the Port Ewen library for April and May, 1922:

"Number of volumes added by gifts 17, by purchase 64. Books loaned 507, readers registered 151. Use of the reading room 116. Amount of money added to the library fund through the card party benefit, $43.11, from overdue books $1.95. The association subscribes for four periodicals and one weekly, while several others have been added to this list as gifts.

"It can readily be seen by the above report of the first two months of the library's existence that more space for books may soon be needed, better reading room, and more frequent opening hours. The same friendly community cooperation that urged to start the library is looked for to meet these coming demands.

"The library belongs to the community. It is yours to use, you support it, do your part to help it grow into broader usefulness."

PLAN TO DISTRIBUTE FLOWERS WHERE NEEDED.

The Kingston Society of Little Gardens is planning a flower service that will be unique in Kingston, yet a service that will be deeply appreciated. In this service they ask the cooperation of the people of Kingston. It is planned that on the Fridays during the next two months flowers from Kingston gardens will be distributed to the Kingston City and Benedictine Hospitals, and through the Salvation Army to the needy sick of the city. So not only will the members of the society bring freshly cut garden flowers to St. John's parish house on Wall street on Thursday afternoons, beginning tomorrow and lasting through July and August, but they ask other Kingston people having flowers to spare to bring them to the parish house on those afternoons that they will be ready for distribution on Fridays. The true lovers of flowers, and those for whom flowers grow the most profusely, are never happier than when sharing their treasures, with others, especially the sick and needy, so there can be no doubt that the floral contributions will be generous each week, thanks to the Society of Little Gardens.

DUPONT HEIRESS WEDS POOR YOUTH

By Telegram to The Freeman
London, June 28.—A real romance, begun in war time, uniting a poor youth to a rich girl, culminated here today in the marriage of Harold Sanford Glendenning, of Norwalk, Conn., a Rhodes scholar, and son of a former mail carrier, and Miss Alicia Dupont, of Wilmington, heiress of one of the greatest fortunes in America.

Miss Dupont met Glendenning while the latter was working as a chemist at one of her father's munitions plants.

The nuptial ceremony took place at 11:30 o'clock in the fashionable St. Paul's Church at Knight's Bridge. The Reverend, the Rev. Dr. Boyde, officiated.

The bride was given away by her father, Alfred Dupont, the bride-maid was Miss Helen Hackett, of New York, and the best man was Russell Rhodes, of the American consulate.

Miss Dupont's gown was of ivory georgette, trimmed with old Malines lace. Her veil of Brittany lace, had been brought from France by the bride's ancestors. Miss Dupont carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Her mother, who was present, wore a dress of white chiffon and lace, with embroidered gold over black satin, and a tulle hat. A number of members of the American colony were present. A reception was held at the Hyde Park Hotel and later the couple left for the Isle of Wight for their honeymoon.

What is Wireless?

Wireless is man's control of electromagnetic waves in the ether. But what are electromagnetic waves? Briefly they are disturbances traveling through ether or space, writes French Strother in the World's Work. When you see sunlight, you see electromagnetic waves, at such a number of vibrations per second that they are perceptible to your senses through your sense of feeling or touch. But both light and heat are exactly the same thing, namely, electromagnetic waves. The only difference between them is that the lengths of the waves are different. The wave-length of light is almost inconceivably short—about one-fiftiethousandth of an inch. The wave-length of heat is longer—about one-tenthousandth of an inch. Now, wireless is exactly the same thing as light and heat, except that its wave-length is immensely longer—anywhere from 200 feet to 20 miles.

The Reason.

"What in cat's fire are you letting that kid make all that infernal howl for?" inquired a hypercritical neighbor who had come over to borrow a clevis.

"Aw, his maw is away for a spell," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "and giving him them two cowbells and telling him to tear loose is the only way to keep him quiet."

"Wizard of the North."

"The Wizard of the North" was a sobriquet bestowed upon Sir Walter Scott (1771-1832), the author of the celebrated "Waverley Novels," in allusion to the magical influence of his works. By several authorities it is stated that the name "Wizard of the North" was given to Sir Walter by Prof. John Wilson, better known by his pen name of Christopher North, in 1817. Scott and Wilson were intimate friends and contributors to the celebrated Blackwood's Magazine, in which it is said that the sobriquet first appeared.

FOR BIG "STRIKE"

Aged Mining Prospector Takes One More Chance.

Sam Conger, Eighty-Nine Years Old, Still in the Harness and Confident He Will Win.

Recently news came that the oldest active mining prospector in the world, Sam Conger, eighty-nine years old, was going back to the Rockies to mine to make his last big strike.

"Sam Conger," the story said, is the "Grand Old Man of the Mountains"—he has prospected in the Rockies for more than seventy years. In addition to locating many of the best paying gold and silver mines in the state, he discovered tungsten, the rare metal of Colorado. He is known to every old mining man and, despite his eighty-nine years, Sam Conger, game to the backbone, is going to the mountains, laden with pack, pick, pan and shovel, resolute to the faith that he will make one more big strike.

It was in Boulder county that he made his first big strike with his discovery of the Buckeye lead in 1892, while the battle of Antietam was being fought. Since then he prospected in California, Oregon, New Mexico, Arizona, and studied leads and veins and strata in every mining section of Colorado. But it was always to Boulder county that he returned to make the big strike. One time it was the Caribou mine, later sold to capitalists of Holland. Then, after long prospecting in other sections, he came back to Boulder and discovered the Poor Man mine, where the ore ran $10,000 to the ton. There were the Fourth of July and the Dintana and many others.

Near Boulder City in the middle '90s he came on a strange black mineral Sam Conger did not then know that he had discovered tungsten. In Oregon he learned the great value of the mineral. He hurried back to Colorado and, in the streets of Denver, met his old partner, who in Arizona had also learned that the black ore was tungsten.

Sam Conger's tungsten claim was offered to the Allis company of Milwaukee and turned down. "There is not a great demand for tungsten," an official said, "and if it should be found in such quantities as Conger says, the price will fall to the lowest point." Conger's option expired. Then Andrew Carnegie took over the tungsten claims. Each year since they have produced their millions.

Conger was born in Ohio. As a lad of seventeen he heard that the lead mines of southwestern Wisconsin were the places for big stakes, but in Wisconsin all the talk was of the richness of the lead deposits of Missouri. And in Missouri he heard of the recently discovered gold at the junction of Cherry creek and the Platte river out where the Ute Indians lived, across the Great American desert.

Sam Conger was one of a party to drive across the Great Plains with "Pike's Peak or Bust" on the wagon canvas and then began his 70 years of prospecting for the precious metals.

Later Sam Conger went to New Mexico. He read how mouthy simon deided among the Indians how they arose, murdered both Spanish conquerors and Franciscans and filled up the mines.

Sam found one of these mines—the St. Lazarus. And until the body of gold ore was worked out it was a good producing mine.

Sam has always wanted riches—not thousands, but millions. Then he could "fix everybody up," and he has notions of "on-dowing" something.

Sam is the last of the old prospectors—simple, kindly, brave. And at eighty-nine he is still walking over the mountains in path he trod when he was a lad—Milwaukee Journal.

College Receiving.

A disastrous fire in one of the buildings Princeton university recently destroyed a part of the radio equipment. While the loss was amply covered by insurance, it was an unfortunate accident, since the matter of arranging for a broadcasting service was just about completed. The idea of a broadcasting originated with L. S. Gatter (1912) and was taken up at once by those in charge of the station. The University of Wisconsin and the University of Minnesota already have established broadcasting stations for general university news, says Scientific American, as well as for results of athletic contests. The set to be installed will have a sending range of 1,000 miles and will operate on 300-meter wave length.

Cardboard.

If the wind rattles bedroom windows at night, small bits of cardboard stuck into the sides will stop the noise.

A Good Reason.

Why should a railroad be patriotic? Because it is bound to the country by the closest of ties!

OPPORTUNITIES FOR KEEPING HONEY BEE

Nectar Going to Waste in Tulip-Tree Regions.

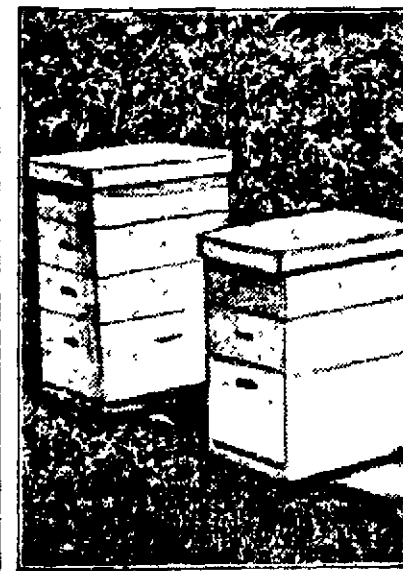

No Question but That Area May Furnish Many Times More Product Than at Present—Bulletin Discusses Methods.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the tons and tons of nectar going to waste every year in the tulip-tree region of the United States because the colonies of bees are not strong enough to get the full amount of surplus, there is no question that this area may furnish many times more honey than it does at present. This opinion is expressed by the United States Department of Agriculture in Farmers' Bulletin 1222, "Beekeeping in the Tulip-Tree Region," prepared by E. F. Phillips and George S. DeLoach, and now available for distribution.

The tulip tree is occasionally found as far north as Vermont and Rhode Island, and west to Michigan, Arkansas and Louisiana. On the outer limits of its distribution it is not abundant. It is more plentiful on the south shore of Lake Erie and on the west of the Mississippi river, except in northeastern Arkansas and southeastern Missouri. The trees are more abundant and larger in the southern part of its range especially in Tennessee, Kentucky, the western part of the Carolinas, and in the Ohio river basin. It is common throughout the Piedmont plateau of Maryland and Virginia.

That this honey can be marketed at a profit is attested by the fact that this section now sends to outside regions for part of its honey supply. There is not the local prejudice to dark honey which exists in the clover region and in the West. All these factors taken together make the region one of promise. The enormous number of colonies of bees in this region is pointed to as proof of the great nectar resources, and if these colonies are given proper care vast quantities of honey can be produced.

The abandonment of the "gums" and box-hives and the adoption of modern equipment, together with practices more suited to the region, is advised. The region, it is said, needs more men engaged in beekeeping on a commercial scale as a chief or only occupation. The peculiarities of the region, however, are such as to demand a close study of the business. Careless beekeeping, it is pointed out, is entirely unprofitable, especially in places where the main honey flow comes so soon after the last killing frost of the spring.

Copies of the bulletin, which discusses methods for carrying on the business successfully, may be had free by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

LAYING HENS IN FARM FLOCK

Most Efficient Number Is Between 150 and 500, Say Ohio Poultry Experts.

At least 150 laying hens should constitute the farm flock, say poultry experts at the Ohio experiment station. The most efficient flock is between 150 and 500. The flock containing fewer than 150 hens is not efficient, while flocks of more than 500, though perhaps too large for the general farmer, may be better adapted to those specializing fruit and poultry farms.

PROPER FERTILIZER TO BUY

Most Economical Material Is That Containing Highest Percentage of Plant Food.

The most economical fertilizer to buy is the one containing the highest percentage of the plant food needed. It will cost more per ton, but may be used at a lower rate per acre because it does not contain so much useless material.

CARING FOR TOMATO PLANTS

Four or Five-Foot Stake Should Be Driven Alongside Each Vine When Soil Is Soft.

Secure a four or five foot stake for each tomato plant and be ready so the stakes can be driven down by each plant when the ground is soft. If the tomatoes are to be trellised similar to grapes, secure posts and two wires for each row.

Simple and Inexpensive Frocks for Summer Wear Help Hold Expenses Down.

UNITED SWISS AND ORGANDIE

These are popular with women in all sections. Making comfortable and practical dresses—ingham holds important place.

Simple and inexpensive clothes made at home by the amateur dressmaker, not only reduce the cost of the wardrobe, but afford a satisfaction known to every woman—having something made the way it is wanted.

The problem of limiting expense and at the same time having charming clothes is one which almost every woman faces at one time or another. This problem may be solved successfully by adopting the plan of the busy housekeeper and working on a budget. It is not as if it is as tedious in dress as it is in any branch of household expenditure or in business.

One way of being well dressed at all times, observes a fashion writer in the New York Tribune, is that of supplementing the expensive models which one must buy with a few simple clothes made at home. It is well to take a lesson from the French women, and if one cannot have a great many beautiful clothes get a few that are good, wear them constantly and then get new ones. In this way it is possible to be much more fashionably dressed than by having a large number of nondescript suits, frocks and hats.

Organdie Frocks of slender outline. Dotted swiss was selected for one model because it is popular with women all over the country and makes a comfortable and practical dress. This dress is worked out in black, dotted with white. Interest is added by white linen ribbon embroidered with black dots, which is used for a sash and to bind the neck of the frock. The scallops are embroidered in white. An organdie dress robbed of its stiffness may not appeal to the flapper, but it does appeal to almost every woman who has passed the flapper stage. Dresses of the crisper muslins would have a much greater appeal were they more clinging in outline. A stiff organdie dress carries no appeal except to those who are exceedingly slender.

A straightline frock of dark red organdie has sleeves and sash of white organdie ornamented with crisp little flowers made of red and white muslins. Patchwork Pockets From Vivid Silks. Ways of embellishing clothes and adding to simple frocks touches that bring them into an entirely new realm are as important as are the clothes themselves; oftentimes they are more so.

A great many women like little or no trimming on their clothes, others enjoy touches of color, ribbons and lace. This is more or less a matter of taste, and it would be making rather a strong statement to say that one is good taste and the other bad.

Things of this sort depend largely on individual temperament. There is no reason why a woman should not have any kind of trimming she likes, especially in these days when so many are offered and all are so rich in suggestion. Because one woman likes her clothes plain and of severe simplicity is no reason why another should sacrifice her individuality by copying her neighbor.

Another very attractive and simply-made frock is of beige cloth.

A trimming of buttons is used on the outside of the sleeve and down the side of the skirt, but the note of real novelty lies in the collar and pockets of old-fashioned patchwork; that is, bits of bits of various colored pieces together and outlined by embroidery stitches. This trimming has the 'in' of the day, and is used by many of the great French dressmakers in their spring models.

Every spring frock, out now—and in the fact that they are so simple, having much the appearance of child-frocks—and that the designs are so intricately and beautifully woven into the material in color or outline, with perhaps here and there a scattering of embroidery in the most pleasing of color combinations. Or, again, the fabric is dyed in the most delicate of pastel shades, embroidered in soft-tone outline; perfectly plain as in the case of many cotton frocks. Better, the artistic creator and producer of simplicity, fabrics, is showing materials of this character.

Glenghams are always good. They are cheerful to look at, reasonable in price, durable and well suited for country frocks, so there is a great deal to recommend them.

A charming dress for warm summer mornings may be made of green and white checked glengham in the following way. Cut the bodice portion just like a chemise dress and join long flowing sleeves to a very low shoulder line. Gather a full skirt to the chemise portion slightly below the normal waistline. The neck may be cut square or in boat shape and finished with a bias fold of green organdie undecorated with one of white.

Dress Easily Made at Home. The sleeves should be edged with organdie in two colors to match the neck. Now make a narrow belt of the red organdie, or of the glengham if you like, and line it with white, allowing the white to show at either edge in the form of a piping. Ornament this with two flay, stiff bows of the green, trimmed with white. Tie the girdle in the back, permitting the stiff little bows to come at either side of the front.

The skirt may be plain or it may have two large tufts encircling it. If further ornamentation is desired, sew the tufts in a long running stitch with green worsted and trim the neck and sleeves in the same way.

Neither worsted nor organdie is a new trimming for glengham dresses, but evidently designers have not been able to think of anything prettier to take their place for we have them used more profusely than ever this year. This is especially true of organdie. Quantities of organdie trimmings are seen.

Tapes and strings, such as are used to tie packages in the shops, have been rediscovered, that is, they have been found decidedly decorative when dyed in bright colors and applied to wash dresses. The tape is used either in white or color on linen frocks for binding the edges and for embroidery. When used for embroidery it is intermingled with stitches in cotton threads.

Such a trimming is effectively carried out on a dress of heavy crease linen, the bodice of which is plain and straight, with a skirt joined to it low on the hips. The skirt laps over on one side and where it fastens there is an embroidered panel. The dress is bound on all edges with the white tape, which affords a pleasing contrast with the linen.

Summer frocks, whether they be in chemise form or in two pieces usually are made to slip on over the head. In each instance the waist portion is usually slashed to enable the wearer to don the garment more readily.

To Wash Lace.

You can wash your delicate lace collar beautifully, and retain the original shape and size, if you bustle the collar on a piece of white cotton fabric and wash it on that. Use lukewarm water and white soap and do not rub the collar, just squeeze it. Rinse thoroughly and dry in direct sunlight.

Allowance Lace Gown.

The all-over lace gown seems to be a favorite just now, in white and black as well as various more or less high shades. To give a lace gown a youthful touch, one designer used many narrow ruffles of chiffon in contrasting color, four circling the skirt.

Three Black Straps.

Many people are unable to tell the difference between a ruck, a crew and a jackdaw. The ruck, when a year old, has a bare face, and its plumage is shiny black; the hooded crew is ashen gray, with a black band; while the jackdaw, though the same size as the ruck, has a steel-blue shimmer on its plumage, and its wings are by no means so long as those of the ruck. The jackdaw can be distinguished easily from any of the other three, first because it is smaller—being only about fourteen inches long—and, secondly, because it has purplish plumage and a grey neck.

YANKS IN FOR SOME DISCIPLINE

Players Did Everything But Play Ball on Western Trip and Huggins Gets Authority to Wield a Club on Them.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, June 28.—Miller Huggins left here this morning to rejoin his Yankees in Washington with definite instructions from the owners of the team to say it with blackjacks if his recalcitrant ball players do not behave themselves in the future. This fact disposes, for the time being, of the rumor that Huggins was to be beheaded in favor of Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the club.

The rumor was denied by all parties concerned, particularly Mr. Barrow, who intimated that neither riches nor blandishments could tempt him.

"We wish to deny emphatically that we are considering a successor to Huggins," Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the club, declared. "He is not to blame for the slump of the team. The players themselves are, in the main, responsible for the loss of the season."

The hurried conference of Yankee officials was prompted by the miserable showing of the club during the present road trip where eight games in succession were lost at one stage of the proceedings and the team played less than .300 baseball. Supreme indifference to what transpired on the ball field and absorbed interest in affairs extraneous to baseball, it is said to have influenced the slump.

Indeed, correspondents with the team have sent back tales purporting to prove that the conduct of the Yankees during the western trip just closed, was the scandal of the league. It is, moreover, significant that when Judge Landis started out to read the riot act to the various clubs throughout both circuits, he opened the tour with a talk to the Yankees. The Red Sox, perforce, were also present but that seemed to be incidental. He is supposed to have directed most of his remarks to our noble champions.

Huggins stopped off here for the conference en route to Washington, leaving the team in charge of Charles O'Leary. This prompted a revival of rumors that the good Miller was to go. Instead, the Yankee owners merely wished to inform their manager that he could go the limit in enforcing discipline and that they would back in any measures he might care to take. In other words, Huggins probably will remain at the head of the club until the end of the season, it being deemed the worst kind of bad business to change horses while crossing a stream.

MISSING GIRL FOUND; HAD RUN AWAY

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., June 28.—Helen Poth, 17-year-old Schenectady girl, who had been mysteriously missing since Sunday, was found wandering around the streets here last night.

She said she ran away because her sister, Mrs. Joseph Kollach, with whom she lived, had called here a "nuisance."

After the girl disappeared, Mrs. Kollach told authorities she feared she had met with foul play.

ELKS ENJOY EXCELLENT CARD

Joe Coffey and Featherstone Stage a Wonderful Bout—Elm City Quartet Pleases With Songs, Other Entertainment.

Tuesday evening at the Elks' Home, an excellent program of entertainment was rendered, to the delight of a large number of Elks and their friends, who filled the large recreation hall to its capacity. Before beginning the program cigars, cigarettes and Mullen's tobacco and corn cob pipes were passed around which all present seemed to enjoy, whether smoking or not.

The first number was a three round boxing exhibition between Hartmann and Russo. Both are rugged boys and put up a strong exhibition of boxing. The Poughkeepsie entertainers were next, Murray and Israel in comic songs and up to the minute jokes. They got themselves very much liked and were held for performances later in the evening, at which they appeared in a splendid manner. Boxing bouts by local featherweights were next staged. McCarthy opposed Lawrence and Brown was matched with Hutton. Both exhibitions were very creditable to the boys and proved they knew the elementary principles of offense and defense.

By this time three members of the local order of Elks were being recognized and applauded. They were Edward Scherer, Edward Cashin and Lew Maxon, who respectively announced the numbers, referred the bouts and kept the time. Joe Coffey and Featherstone in a six round bout was staged at this time and a very clever exhibition of boxing resulted. The six rounds were as good as if not better than any bout ever exhibited in this city, or as good as any preliminary bout at any show. Much to the surprise of those present the boys were in excellent shape and evenly matched. Joe Coffey is a brother of Vince and has fought a number of good men in New York and Albany. Featherstone is a local man and gained his knowledge of the art of self defense in camp during the recent World War. Kid Carter made an appearance at this time. He played in the ring with Lew Denning of Pittsburgh. Vince Coffey and Policeman Roedel furnished the final bout and put up a very clever go for three rounds. Miller at this time gave a number of banjo selections and was followed by the Elm City Quartet, who so pleased the audience that they were encored for several numbers, thus concluding the very interesting and enjoyable entertainment.

ADVANCE RESTAURANT PUTS IN MODERN COOLING PLANT.

L. Barth & Son, Inc., of No. 85 Grand street, the well known manufacturers of hotel kitchenware and other hotel and restaurant supplies, on Tuesday placed a large new ice box with plate glass doors in the space at the rear of the lunch counter of The Advance Restaurant, opposite the Court house on Wall street, for use exclusively in connection with the lunch counter.

A nine foot ice-cooled display case for displaying sea foods and other dainties is awaiting installation in the front window of The Advance Restaurant as soon as the plate glass front can be removed long enough to place it in position, and will afford ample space for an attractive display of all kinds of foods in their season.

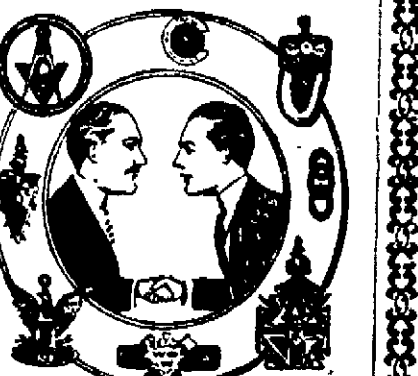

Barth & Son on Tuesday also placed one of their large restaurant-size ice coolers in the kitchen of The Advance Restaurant, similar in construction and size to those which the company has been making at its Kingston factory and supplying to all the large summer hotels in this vicinity. New baking, pastry and bread ovens have been placed in the kitchens and bakery of The Advance on Monday and Tuesday, and a cooler and ventilator driven by large fans and powerful motor are among other recent improvements there.

TAGGING ALL BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Eddie Rommel must have eaten his vest pocket rain yesterday. He qualified as an iron man by pitching the Athletics to a double victory over the Red Sox, the latter moving into the cellar while the former moved out.

The Pirates got back into stride by taking the Cubs over the jumps in a doubleheader, 6 to 1, and 7 to 6, manhandling Cheever in unseemly fashion in the first game.

Neither Ehmske nor the Tigers could stand prosperity. After getting away running with a four-run lead, they allowed the White Sox to come from behind and win, 9 to 5.

"Dutch" Reuther made it thirteen victories in sixteen starts by pitching the Dodgers to a 7 to 3 decision over the tall end Braves.

Everything was sweet for the Browns until the eighth when the Indians laid violent hands upon the pitching of Wright and Vangilder, drove in six runs and ultimately won 9 to 7.

In a foreshortened game, the Giants bunched hits off Hubbell with errors by Parkinson and beat the Phils, 7 to 1, the affair was called in the sixth inning because it was raining rain, not violets.

Hargrave's homer in the ninth put the Reds one run to the good, but the Cards came back, tied it up and then won in the twelfth when Gainer's double was followed by an out and Schult's sacrifice.
